

ARCHITECTURE & PLANNING SERVICE

Since 1993, JB Architecture Group, Inc. has been designing luxurious award-winning custom homes throughout the Chicagoland area. Founder, President and Principle Architect, Jonathan Bieritz, leads our team of designers and CAD technicians working closely with you to produce architectural plans that quickly become works of art. From the elegance of the designs, to the organization of the plans and the accuracy of the details, we take pride in what we provide to you as working drawings for your future home or office construction project.

Doing this for over 27 years, we have learned the importance of producing a quality set of drawings that not only showcases a beautiful design, but has been thoroughly detailed to ensure the finished product is as close to the concept as can be. Our experience and knowledge of the construction process is realized by the infrequency of questions during construction. With the time and thought that is put into your plans, when there is a question, we have the ability to provide a prompt response or alternate detail to facilitate the intent of the finished design.

A derivative of the personal approach we take with you is the knowledge that we pass along to you during the design. We enjoy being able to walk you through your design and not only explain why a layout works, but how it works and why the design culminated the way it did. The concept that form follows function is expanded by including the means of obtaining that function within our designs.

Our goal is to provide you with an enjoyable experience throughout the planning and design phase of your project. Once the plans are completed and the construction phase begins, we will continue to be your advocate until your project comes to an end. When you move forward with construction we hope that the relationship we have built during the design phase can further evolve as you consider JB Architecture Group as your builder.
